

The Perfect Point

by Deb Karasik

The very first thing a judge will look for on any quilt with spikes or points, is cut off points. It's happened to the best of us, and subconsciously, I had started ensuring that I never lost a point again. The quilt police would probably think it's cheating, but who cares? I won't lose another point to a seam again!

It's just a matter of training ourselves to drop our points down, by crossing the seam lines below the printed points. (see above). I automatically do the same thing for the bottom points as well.

It's the little things that elevate the quality of our work...not rocket science! Remember, any questions just ask! Email me at deb@quiltmavens.com.
